BAYCASTLE, DATA ACCESS PARTNER TO PROMOTE DATABASE SOFTWARE TOOLS

Dorking, UK, September 13, 2007 – Data Access Worldwide of Miami, Florida and Baycastle Software of Surrey, England have joined together in a new marketing partnership to promote their complimentary toolsets.

Data Access Worldwide's Visual DataFlex software is a highly tuned database application development framework for building and deploying Windows and Web business software solutions. Baycastle's DataSlave software is an award winning Windows product designed to help users check, de-duplicate, transform and synchronize their data. The tool enables users to quickly move data in and out of their business applications. The newly released version 2.1 of DataSlave adds support for Data Access Worldwide's DataFlex embedded database.

Both companies' solutions are database-independent, enabling users to deploy either toolset for use with Microsoft SQL Server, IBM DB2, Pervasive.SQL, Oracle, MySQL, Pervasive SQL and DataFlex databases, as well as with any ODBC compliant database.

"This marketing alliance provides us with an excellent opportunity to better serve our respective customers by offering useful, complimentary tools. We are excited to be partnering with Baycastle Software and to have their DataSlave ETL tool supporting our Visual DataFlex product and users," says Data Access Worldwide's president and CEO Chip Casanave.
